

ISO 9001:2015 Management System Consulting and Advisory Services

As the world's leading quality management standard, ISO 9001, is in the final stages of the latest revision's development, the UL experts are ready to help your organization in preparing for the ISO 9001:2015 transition.

In order for your organization to adjust to the global and technological changes in the market and continuously satisfy customers, the implementation of the ISO 9001:2015 Quality Management System Standard will be necessary. The 2015 revision to the ISO 9001 Standard puts in place a strong foundation for your organization's future, which integrates with a variety of current/other management systems.

The ISO 9001:2015 Standard places emphasis on customer focus, flexibility with documented information, aligning a Quality Management System with an organization's strategy, and risk-based thinking. UL's ISO 9001:2015 Management System Consulting and Advisory Services aim to help improve an organization's Quality System and increase customer trust through mitigating supply chain risk.

The UL Management System Consulting and Advisory Services are specifically designed to assist an organization in understanding the requirements of the revised standards in greater detail and aid organizations in implementing the quality management system standard with ease. Our teams of UL experts aim to help your organization comprehend how the revised standard relates to your business, regardless of your industry type or sector.

Along with ISO 9001:2015, UL also offers a variety of Management System Consulting and Advisory Services:
